

JOTUNGER

Immerse yourself in well-known songs of old, echoing Celtic and Nordic soundscapes from centuries ago, and original compositions which draw their breath from this heart of history in a fusion with symphonic arrangements and the nerve and power from primal folk and heavy metal.

From intimate and alluring songs, through to dramatic, dark and heavy lamentations.

Let your fantasy take flight when enchanting ancient instruments, powerful vocals and interactive storytelling are woven into a unique universe. A universe which carries the listener over majestic mountains, soaring on a leaf through hidden valleys and treading the paths of ancient forests where the creatures of folklore and the raw power of the ancients come alive.

Jotunger delivers a high-quality performance full of presence and humour.
The music alive with history and mystique which captivates both kids and adults.

JOTUNGER is an experimental Nordic folk fusion band, whose work is informed by different genres of music. The band members have decades of experience touring the world, and come from various educational backgrounds such as Musicology, History, Ethnomusicology and Cultural Heritage Studies, which allow us to bring a fun and educational dimension to our performances as well. Something we have specialized in doing at Viking festivals all over Scandinavia, and in collaboration with museums all over Denmark.

We can perform as a trio, quartet or as a full band. Recently we performed with the award-nominated concept Whisky & Witches at Copenhagen Distillery, at the National Museum of Denmark, and have been touring Viking and Fantasy Festivals all summer.

In 2024 the band also recorded the Nordic/Celtic Symphonic Folk Fusion project “Echoes of North” which Christine Kammerer wrote.

For over 7 years we have made our mark on the Danish Viking and folk stage, becoming one of the most sought-after Viking/folk fusion bands.

We began our journey as Gjaldulei in 2018, and later transformed into Jotunger.
