

Jotunger

JOTUNGER is a Danish Viking band whose work, like that of the Vikings themselves, is inspired by travel across different parts of the world - as well as by various branches of folk - and historical music.

Jotunger is well known from the Danish Viking and folk music scene. They have performed at a wide range of events and festivals, including numerous times at places like The National Museum of Denmark, Moesgaard Museum and Copenhagen Historical Market. Their international experience includes Lofotr Viking Museum in Norway and the Edinburgh Festival Fringe in Scotland. In 2025 their Fringe show "Jotunger: A Viking Feast & Musical Experience" sold out several shows and garnered great reviews.

What can you expect?

Experience a soundscape of Nordic and Celtic tonalities which echo in mountains, breathe in ancient oak trees, and awaken the elven king deep within the hill.

Through an atmospheric landscape of crackling, playful lyre, hypnotic articulations of woodwinds and gemshorns, evocative vocals, and a horsehair bow dancing across the strings of the bowed lyre, the listener is transported deep into an ancient time.

Jotunger's performance is not only entertaining, it is rooted in history and echoing ancient melodic structures which are woven into original compositions. The band has decades of touring experience and diverse backgrounds ranging from University to Music Conservatory.
